

Joe Halso is an Associate Attorney at the Sierra Club, where he works to electrify our nation's transportation sector. He focuses on improving electric vehicle adoption in a manner that speeds the transition to a smarter, cleaner and more affordable electricity grid. He first joined Sierra Club as a legal fellow in 2015.

Mr. Halso is a graduate of the University of Michigan, where he earned a BA in english and environmental sciences, and of the University of Michigan Law School, where he served as Articles Editor of the Michigan Journal of Environmental & Administrative Law.

Before law school, he worked for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, where he performed spatial analyses for the fish ecology division. For a time, he also managed the University of Michigan's wilderness trip program.

During law school, he worked for the National Wildlife Federation and the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of Michigan, in addition to participating in several environmental clinical and pro bono programs.

He is based in Washington, D.C.