

Michelle Morin has been with the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM) for 23 years and has coordinated dozens of environmental impact statements and assessments for BOEM's oil and gas and renewable energy programs. As the Chief of BOEM's Environment Branch for Renewable Energy, she manages an interdisciplinary team responsible for environmental assessments, consultations, and studies related to renewable energy leasing and development on the Atlantic Outer Continental Shelf.